

1861-1865

African-American sailor mans a Parrott gun. The swab he holds is used to put out any embers left in the barrel before the next charge of black powder is loaded. Yankee crews were made up of men from every state and many countries. Black sailors made up about 20% of the fleet. In the course of the war, eight of these men won the new Medal of Honor for heroism in battle.

